Are rechargeable batteries better than disposable batteries?

Rechargeable batteries can run for hundreds of cycles, meaning you don't have to buy and dispose of huge quantities of disposable batteries. This is much cheaper and it's better for the environment as well since battery disposal and recycling can be a carbon-intense process.

Are rechargeable batteries better than AA batteries?

Although rechargeable batteries may be more of a popular option, as they offer better value over their lifespan and are better for the environment, a disposable set of alkaline AA or AAA batteries is incredibly convenient.

Are lithium batteries better than AA batteries?

Lithium batteries are even better at maintaining a consistent voltage, and they are now available at AA sizes. However, they come with a steep price premium and require their own chargers, while the running times with high-voltage devices isn't usually up there with the best AAs.

What type of battery should I buy?

Shop around for AA and AAA batteries and the main types you'll find are alkaline and lithium disposable batteries. Lithium batteries last a lot longer in more energy intensive devices. We've found that they can give you 2-3 hours more power than an alkaline battery. But they're also much more expensive.

Are alkaline batteries better than disposable batteries?

These batteries cost only a few pounds more to buy than disposable alkalines and yet they will power most devices for longer. They will also do so more efficiently because the voltage of a NiMH battery is maintained at 1.2V for most of its operating time. The voltage of alkaline batteries tends to taper off while they're being used.
