How did China influence the battery industry?

Japan and South Korea furthered technological development, laying the groundwork for rapid growth of the battery industry in Asia. In turn, China made substantial investments in the battery industry, catapulting it to global leadership. Today, China accounts for a dominant share of lithium-ion battery production.

Why are Chinese battery companies expanding overseas markets?

Therefore, lithium enterprises are actively broadening overseas markets, which will make the subsequent development of more market impetus. In addition to packaging and exporting, Chinese battery manufacturers have also begun to directly build factories overseas or invest in overseas battery manufacturing projects.

Where does the battery industry come from?

The battery industry has deep roots in Asia, particularly in China, Japan, and South Korea. In 1991, Sony introduced the first commercial lithium-ion battery in Japan. Japan and South Korea furthered technological development, laying the groundwork for rapid growth of the battery industry in Asia.

Why is China a leader in lithium-ion battery production?

In turn, China made substantial investments in the battery industry, catapulting it to global leadership. Today, China accounts for a dominant share of lithium-ion battery production. According to the typical cost breakdown of a conventional lithium-ion battery cell system, cathode is the largest category, at approximately 40 percent (Exhibit 1).

How big is China's power battery production in 2022?

According to public calculations, in 2022, China's power battery production totals 545.9GWh, meanwhile, the installed volume is only 294.6GWh, accounting for 53.96%, even with 108.1GWh of battery exports and exports with the vehicle, the ratio is only 73.77%. China's overcapacity has become an established fact.

China produces almost 100% of LFP battery cells and cathodes. China controls the LFP battery supply chain. With these potential restrictions, some projects are in danger.
